

Sleepwalking to "1984"

Sorry, I was out buying a can of peas

Exasperated.

The single word that sums up my present mood.

The American public has lost any and all control over their own government, at the local level, and remains somnambulant. As if completely lost in their own themselves.

Data Centers are being built as fast as they can build them, in every state, and exists a lack of curiosity about their future function and operation. As if they are actually building these Centers to study and analyze the exact moment in time present you with the dollar off coupon as you need Tide. As if these Centers have everything to do with perfecting commerce and not creating a totalitarian state.

Busy 4 the Lord

Watch on

His use of the word “We” early in this video should chill every God Damned h alive, as in “we will be monitoring”.

Excuse me, who in the Fuck elected Larry Ellison to become our over-lord vie of society and monitoring so that “we would all be on our best behavior”.

Do you all realize we are sleepwalking into “1984”?

Ellison’s reference to “Police being on their best behavior” is a canard. A distr
A bone thrown to the low IQ poor and the underclass. We have police body ca there is no need for added surveillance.

And in fact, Police body cams has opened everyone’s eyes to just how feral a p our population really is, how they act, perhaps why their experience with law enforcement isn’t optimal.

Have you seen the videos, these woman have, and realize that they are causing backlash against the long-held position that the Police abuse blacks in traffic when the body cam videos show a completely reversed situation.

We don't need to build billion dollar data centers to Police the Police. Ellison is gaslighting in the extreme there.

Once you realize they body-doubled Biden and sent an actor out to pretend to be Commander-in-Chief, you begin to understand the depths of just how far gone we as a nation, of how we have lost complete control. Go back and look at the tap changes height, changes appearance, and in one video has a mask "tag" sticking in his ear.

Oh, wait, I'm some kind of tin-foil hat who has lost it with that claim? Explain why they had to build a "set" in the basement of the West Wing approximating Oval Office, when the real Oval Office was reachable from the “set” in mere minutes.

Hiding a dementia patient from the American Public takes subterfuge. Tiny secrets multiply and double.

Refusing to acknowledge the levels those in control have gone, and will go, to, and gaslighting the American public is how you become a sheep, herded by overlords, as Larry Ellison.

Once you realize that Ron Klain and Antony Blinken were the real powers in control during the Biden Presidency, things start to make more sense.

Pay no attention to the fact our self-appointed overlords all come from the same playbook that could lead to being called antisemitic. The owners of Google, the owners of Amazon, Oracle and Palantir, the owner of Facebook, the owners of every one of the major mass media conglomerates, at every turn the same, Biden had Blinken and Klain, Trump had Kushner, Miller and Lutnick. Lutnick now owns Epstein’s old brownstone. He is a co-inky-dink.

The Oligarchs have funneled all the cash to themselves through the purchase of the US government. They’ve run the cost of a nice Hampton’s waterfront to well over a hundred million, the same for all of Palm Beach.

One gave Trump three-hundred-and-fifty million dollars, a Ms. Miriam Adelson, who got him to go to war with Iran for Israel. Have enough cash you can even buy a nuclear war.

Pay no attention to.....never mind. Never fucking mind.

Larry Ellison is bold enough to go out into a public forum and say that “people would be better behaved” under all of this new surveillance he controls, he didn’t say it was back room in private to his buddies.

No.

He said this in a public forum.

Excuse me. Hello. Excuse me.

Who will decide what is proper behavior, and who will decide what is a punishable offense?

Will I be targeted for the insinuation in this column, because I've noticed the and called it out, will "noticing" become a new crime? Will I lose banking privilege because Blackrock and Company own all of Wall Street and all the big banks? Blackrock run by.....oh, fuck it.

67% of NBA teams, over 50% of NFL teams, and over 50% of MLB teams are owned by less than 2% of the US population. Never mind.

Listen up, when Larry Ellison is completely comfortable sitting in a public forum telling us all that the future will be "bright" because "everyone will be on their best behavior", that should scare the bejesus out of you.

Wait, what?

You have a nail appointment, and you really wanted one of those breakfast croissants from your favorite stop? Can't listen to this drivel anymore. Oh, sure. Enjoy, just make sure you are on your "best behavior".

I can't wait until we find out what the list of best behaviors constitutes.

Pssst.....how much you want to bet "noticing" is at the top of the list?

It is already over.

The control is damn near complete.

They did a dry run in Canada and neutered the Canadian Truckers overnight.

De-banked.

Loss of driver's license.

Loss of insurance.

Shut down, dehumanized.

For protesting legally.

Legally.

For expressing their political views in public and inconveniencing the politicians.

I'm not sure you understand, and I realize you are late for your nail appointment, but we are all now Canadian Truckers.

They neutered the Teamsters to the extent there isn't a damn thing they can do about it, this isn't 1960, we no longer have a Jimmy Hoffa, and they blew his nemesis out in broad daylight. They.....oh, fuck it.

The point is, we are all right now Charlie Kirk.

We don't have some possibility of being Charlie Kirk in the future if things keep going this way. No. We are Charlie Kirk now, right now.

You see, Charlie Kirk turned down the big donors. And told everyone the donors going to kill him for turning them down.

But Charlie thought the clock started ticking the day he said “no”, not realizing contingencies were in place in case he said “no”. Long-term contingencies. In ever “got out of line”.

Charlie sat thinking he had six months to find a way to prevent his own murder, figured it would take six months of planning, and by then he’d figure a way out, realizing that they had plans for the day he said “no”. He was dead within two days of saying “no”. Wait, who did Charlie Kirk say this “no” to, who did he turn down, never mind.

And that brings me to “us”.

We are already fully controlled. In total. The Data Centers aren’t the start, they are the final piece. The Flock Cameras aren’t the start, they are just a capstone.

The exasperation is due to the fact that I can see what others refuse to see. The Covid forward the plans to control us all have gone into overdrive. The dry run implementation of final control were run under the guise of a pandemic.

They showed us all they can manipulate elections, movements, lock downs, proof of it. The current inflation we are all dealing with is a control mechanism. Destroy the middle class. To push most toward the lower class and a dependence on universal basic income becomes necessary.

So that we have only two classes in the US, the wealthy and the dependent. No middle class at all. Know why? A middle class will fight back. Dependents won’t, that jeopardizes the check in the mail.

And the wealthy will all be part of Larry Ellison’s crowd, the “we” that makes :

decisions.

And if you feel I've gone off-the-rails on this particular missive out of 1,100 pl maybe you should call Larry Ellison and ask him what the "acceptable behavior" should be in his future utopia.

Because if you think Trump is in charge of our nation right now, you are just "years ago, thinking we still had a chance to save this nation. Not realizing just gone we are.

The next point to be pondered by critical thinking minds should be, "will they crash our economy in total to seize official control and institute the surveillance or will they just inflate our money until we cry "uncle"?

Until we beg for Universal Basic Income from our tech overlords.

I'm thinking they won't be happy until they 1929 crash us all out and devalue our money completely. So that we have to beg the new system "they" create for a subsistence to survive.

And once given that subsistence we won't be angry they've taken complete control. No.

We will be grateful they've taken over.

Grateful for the hand out that keeps us all alive.

Grateful causes compliance. Willful compliance. Joyful compliance.

And wasn't that what everyone who read "1984" marveled about, the fact that the author described the general public as happily compliant, and everyone in 195

America reading that book couldn't believe that Americans would ever go will serve under a totalitarianism with a smile.

Market crash and Weimar Republic “money” anyone?

Mr Herman: Thank you for another brilliant post. But I believe that we will not be "happily compliant." UBI and DEI destroys agency. We are hardwired to value what we have earned toward something "more." I do think the data center build out, based on GPU lifespan and obsolescence, costliness of total surveillance, and human nature, will ultimately faceplate. Fitts says, the overlords lack the "mandate of heaven." We shall see how much damage this eventual fall.
